Outline

- 1 A section
 - A subsection
- 2 Another section
 - And its first subsection
 - And its second subsection

This is a frame

Really, it is yes.

Outline

- 1 A section
 - A subsection

- 2 Another section
 - And its first subsection
 - And its second subsection

Why am I creating all these dummy slides?

I swear there is a reason.

Outline

- 1 A section
 - A subsection

- 2 Another section
 - And its first subsection
 - And its second subsection

The answer

Yeah, the point mostly was to get realistic-ish top box (with the little clickable circles and the current section in TrueTeal and all) and Outline frames.

Conclusion

Why must all the good things come to an end?

- What's a 'keenaught'?
- You'd stop the main part of your talk here, supposedly. See how it's numbered 8/8?

Appendix A.

Ugly derivations

'Glad you asked! There is a slide for that!'¹

¹See how this slide is numbered 9/8? That's what the thingie in the preamble was about.
